

The death of Dr. Pink B. Carrigan yesterday removed from the Hempstead county scene a native son who had a fine bent, much talent, and a broad interest in life.

He was prodigal in his work among the poor.

He was genuinely interested in people. As a young doctor he went to Tampico, Mexico, serving a year there for ten years, and helping the Mexicans fight the dread scourge of yellow fever.

His hobby was the study of wild life — the wild life of his own native Hempstead county. Dr. Pink was never more aggressive than when demanding publicity for each visit of the St. Louis Zoo men to the local lakes for specimens and photographs of egrets, alligators and snakes. And you only had to attend one of his parties for the visiting St. Louisians to understand that Dr. Pink did a very great deal to establish the fame of this section among naturalists everywhere.

On the lighter side, I recall that nearly twenty years ago Dr. Pink aroused some controversy because he had about sixteen fox-hounds quartered on a pen in city-owned fair park. One summer night the dogs broke out of the pen, raised a fox and woke up the whole town as Mr. Fox and his canine retinue came up South Elm street, where they past the police station, and then headed back down South Main street for open country.

It was a great hue and cry. Hope loved it, regardless — and today mourns the passing of its author.

Some of the measures proposed by Governor McMath to raise additional state revenue are feasible, but others reflect the administration's tendency to change policy from week to week.

It was hardly a week ago that the governor was quoted as saying he had no intention of altering the present state income tax, which already works a special hardship by allowing citizens only 50 per cent credit on their federal income tax payments. Now the governor thinks the state ought to increase the levy by eliminating federal tax credit entirely — which is obviously double taxation.

There is going to be powerful and justified resistance to any such move. The federal government has undertaken claim to the income tax field.

On the other hand, the governor is stating sound policy when he proposes to apply a use tax against goods bought outside Arkansas, to equalize the sales tax which is levied against goods bought at home. Not only will the use tax yield additional revenue, but it is fundamentally fair. The only drawback is that every time a use tax bill is drafted somebody tries to equalize the sales tax.

Slow Recession to Hit Bottom in '52 — Babson

Editor's note:
(Roger Babson, economist who predicted the 1929 stock market crash, forecasts in the following dispatch a gradual business recession which won't hit bottom until 1952 or 1953.)

By ROGER W. BABSON

Wellesley Hill, Mass., Feb. 23

(UP)—People are again feeling pinched for money.

Competition in most industries is beginning to become troublesome.

The supply lines are getting clogged with goods. The public has used up a large portion of its war savings. With many more consumers manufacturing all kinds of products and with many more people without available savings, unemployment is sure to increase.

The "vicious circle" which caused the expansion is bound to cause a reverse. This is due to Sir Isaac Newton's law of action and reaction which is a fundamental in economics as in chemistry or physics.

On the other hand, I do not expect a sudden drop as occurred in 1929-31, 1930-32 and in 1937.

Instead of falling out of the 20th story window we will walk down stairs! This will be due to new inventions, unemployment insurance, minimum wages, relaxed investment regulations, and more liberal small loan operations, and to our tightly organized labor unions.

No artificial or other legislation can prevent a red area of depression from sometime following the present state income tax, which have enjoyed the past seven or eight years, but legislation can change the shape of such a depressive area. Legislation can taper off the decline.

Hence, instead of saying that a "crash" is just ahead of us, as I preached in 1929 when there was no "oxygen" or other drugs available in Washington, I now say we have started to "walk down stairs" and will not reach the pavement until 1952 or 1953.

Penicillin and the sulfa drugs will prolong the age of old people, but they do not prevent ultimate death. The business of undertakers is temporarily slowed up, but they will exactly the same number of coffins and capital during every business cycle.

There is nothing to worry about now. Both the employment figures of the past few years and the unemployment figures now being published are in line with political estimates and guesses put out by Washington.

But the business honeymoon is over and we should once more realize that we cannot loaf our way to prosperity. We must give more time and labor for a dollar of wages and profits.

Testifies Coal Strike Would Be Serious to U. S.

Washington, Feb. 23 — A spokesman for coal mine operators told congress today that a 30 to 50-day miners' strike would put the country in a "very serious situation."

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, was arguing to the senate labor committee that there is no doubt that the Taft-Hartley law proposal which lets the government get 60-day court orders against critical strikes.

Moody testified as the committee neared the end of public hearings on the administration's labor bill after a month of stormy sessions. Hearings are scheduled to wind up late today.

Moody told the committee yesterday that the nation may face another crippling coal strike "unless the safeguards in the Taft-Hartley law are continued." He also said there is a 40 to 50-day supply of coal on hand, "the best in over 10 years."

James W. Haley, secretary and general counsel of the National Coal association, another witness yesterday also urged that congress keep the T-H provision for court orders against national emergency strikes. The administration bill would do away with it.

Today, with Moody back on the stand, Senator Donnell (R-Mo) recalled that Secretary of Labor Tobin had estimated the amount of coal above the ground at about a 100-day supply.

Moody said that was an incorrect estimate. Then, noting that the mine owners present contact with John L. Lewis' mine workers runs out June 30, Moody said:

"If the mines should shut down for 30 or 40 or 50 days, we would be back, back in a very serious situation."

Senator Morse (R-Ore), who is opposed to the Taft-Hartley court injunction section, asked Moody whether he feels the provision is necessary "in order to hold a threat over Mr. Lewis' x x x and maybe get him into jail."

"No, Senator Morse," Moody replied. "The Taft-Hartley law requires honest bargaining."

Morse suggested that the "injunction weapon" was "sort of a louding the dice" in favor of the mine owners.

Moody said he did not agree. He said the emphasis should be on collective bargaining, not the injunction.

"Nobody likes injunctions," Moody declared. "But sometimes there comes a time when there is no other way out."

Grand Jury Gets Case Against Jewel Thief

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 23 — Westchester county authorities today presented to the grand jury the alleged crime forays of Gerard G. Dennis, who is said to have admitted he looted homes of more than $600,000 worth of jewels and furs across the country.

District Attorney George M. Fanelli said he would ask for indictments for first degree assault and first degree robbery.

The assault charge against the tall, suave prisoner is based on the allegation that Dennis shot Marshall E. Tulloch, when Tulloch and his wife returned to their New Rochelle home in October 1946 and surprised Dennis in a $9,000 robbery there.

The 28-year-old Canadian was arrested just week ago in Cleveland with $18,000 in unset diamonds and $1,400 in cash in his possession.

Would Outlaw Red-Backed German Money

Berlin, Feb. 22 — (UP)—Col. Frank L. Howley, U. S. commandant here, disclosed today that he has recommended outlawing the Soviet-backed Deutschmark in west Berlin and making the Western allied mark the sole legal tender. In an exclusive United Press interview Howley proposed drastic action on the money problem in Berlin. It is the basic issue in the East-West dispute which split Berlin in two parts and caused the Russians to blockade the city.

"The Eastern mark must be outlawed in west Berlin, and the Western mark must be made the only legal tender," the military chief of the U. S. sector here insisted.

"We must make the Western mark the only legal mark if we are to face a blockade that might

Plans to Operate Railway Sent to Commission

Little Rock, Feb. 23 — (UP)—A plan for operation of part of the idle Missouri and Arkansas railroad has been submitted to the Arkansas Public Service commission with a request for approval.

The plan, announced by the road's owners last weekend, proposes operation of the road from Leslie Northwest to connect with the Frisco lines at Seligman, Mo., and southeast from Heber Springs to Helena to connect with the Missouri Pacific and Rock Island lines.

No date was set for a hearing.

Fresh pork tenderloin or veal cutlets may be used in making chop suey. If pork is chosen be sure to cook it thoroughly before adding the vegetables.

continue indefinitely."

He added that he had recommended this major change in policy to higher authorities. Despite the pressing need for outlawing the Soviet mark, he said, the matter probably will have to go through the regular channels to the government level for a decision.

Howley referred to the Eastern mark as a "piece of paper that will have no value once we no longer accept it in payment for food and rent."

The incidents of West Berlin now get one-fourth of their wages in West marks. At official currency exchanges, one West mark will buy three and a half East marks.

Early this month a United Nations committee, after two months of secret discussions, ended its attempt to find a solution of the Berlin currency problem acceptable to both the Western powers and Russia.

The problem stemmed from currency reform in Germany by the occupation powers last summer. The Western powers went ahead with currency reform in Western Germany without the Russians blocked Berlin theoretically to prevent an influx of the new Western currency which they claimed would undermine the economy of eastern Germany.

Dangerous landslides and flash floods struck along mountain slopes of the Pacific northwest today and authorities set up a 24-hour alert for possible floods along the ice-jammed Missouri river on the Great Plains.

Avalanches in scattered sections of Oregon and Washington were set off by heavy rains that totaled more than two inches in some areas. The rain was tapering off today.

A landslide near Edmund, Wash., shoved one car of a Great Northern railroad passenger train off the tracks. No passengers were aboard but a dining car waiter was injured slightly. The car remained upright but mud poured through the broken windows. The slide

In the central states, the weather bureau warned of possible dangerous floods in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa as a hot winter

The dining table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a miniature bride doll, on a silver stand, surrounded by candytuft, white hydrangeas, jonquils and plums. White satin streamers tied to small clusters of gypsophila and plumosa fern extended over the side of the table from the center of white stock.

DOROTHY DIX Badly Needed Lesson

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married seven years and have three lovely children; but due to my husband's mean disposition and abusive treatment of me, my love for him is entirely dead. I have met another man who loves me and I have told my husband about him and asked him for a divorce.

My wanting to leave my husband has given him a jolt and he seems a changed man. He says if I will give him another chance he will prove that he can make me happy. What must I do? Divorce my husband and marry this other man? Do you think we can ever be happy together?

Answer: I think that all things considered, you will stand a better chance of happiness with your husband than you would with the other man. There are the children, you see, and they make an alien element in any second marriage that nearly always wrecks it. It seems almost impossible for either a man or a woman to rise to the heights of not being jealous of stepchildren. A man adores the maternal passion in a woman when it is extended on his own children. He excuses her absorption in them, but he resents it with every fiber of his being when she displays this mother love towards another man's children.

Will Mind P's, Q's
Evidently your husband has received a badly needed lesson in finding out that he has lost your love by his cruelty toward you, so you may safely count on his trying to make things pleasant for you hereafter. He will mind his p's and q's as he probably make a pleasant companion than the other man, whose peculiarities of temper and temperament you would have to risk. For every man shows himself in the effort to win a woman after he is married to her from the one he has been courting her. I do not believe you can bring back the thrill and glamour of love once they are gone, but I do believe that on the ashes of a cold heartstone you can light the fire of a friendship that will be very warm and comfortable. And I think that you will always have the happiness of knowing that you have done the brave thing and the right thing.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young man in my late twenties and have tried very hard to make a success of life. I have worked steadily and made every effort, but to no avail. Must I keep on trying believing that success will come eventually or give up entirely? I am so foolish to waste your life trying when it isn't really your fault that you don't succeed.

Answer: Well, G. H. T., perhaps you are trying to do a thing that you can never do, so all your striving is simply lost motion. Work, of itself, is not enough. You must work intelligently, and if you do work intelligently you will always succeed in the end.

So my advice to you is to sit down and vivisect yourself. Be honest with yourself, no matter how much it hurts, and find out what it is in you that has made you fail. Perhaps you are trying to do something for which you are not adapted. Perhaps you are a bungling amateur who never has really learned to do any one thing well. Perhaps you lack the courage to where fortune calls. Think it over.

But it is always worth while to struggle, even if we do fail, because if we have done our best, we at least have our self-respect.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a high school girl and, as studies are very hard for me, I am anxious to quit school and go to work. But my mother insists that I must continue with my education. What is your advice?

Answer: Study hard and get through school as quickly as possible if you are in a hurry to get

Churchmen Charges Are Protested

By DIMETER MISHEV
Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper quoted various Bulgarian Protestant churches today as denouncing 15 Protestant churchmen accused of spying for the United States and Britain.

The churchmen are scheduled to go on trial here Friday. The government has announced it has confessions from some of the accused. The Sofia press has printed detailed accounts of three of the purported confessions.

(Dr. Paul N. Garber, Methodist bishop for central and southern Europe, charged in Geneva that one of the defendants was tortured until he confessed crimes of which he was innocent. He said this was a confession attributed to the Rev. Yanko N. Ivanov, Methodist church supervisor in Bulgaria. Ivanov has been quoted in Sofia as admitting he was a spy agent for Bishop Garber also was involved in espionage. Bishop Garber said he learned Ivanov was offered freedom if he would pledge loyalty to the Communist regime in Bulgaria and serve as a spy for the government. The clergyman refused, and the mistreatment of Ivanov and Mrs. Ivanov resulted, Bishop Garber said. He added one of Ivanov's sons was sent to a labor camp on the other side of the world.

The British foreign office in London announced Bulgaria has agreed to admit two British legation staff members to the churchmen's trial as observers. Britain denied yesterday that her representatives in Bulgaria have dealt with spies. Minister of State Hector McNeill told parliament that the churchmen's arrest may be a violation of Bulgaria's peace treaty pledges to respect human rights.

The Sofia Communist newspaper Rabotnichesko Delo published a resolution attributed to the council to work. Remember that the first question you will be asked when you apply for a job is whether you graduated from high school or not, and if you did not, all the better places will turn you down. The more you know, the higher wages you can get.

Perhaps if you will think of school as a ladder on which you are going to climb up to the things you want, it will not seem so distasteful to you.

and board of the Hungarian congregational church, which is headed by Vassil Ziapkov, one of the accused. The statement said: "We are surprised and profoundly shocked by the treacherous activity towards our motherland by a group of evangelical churchmen, among whom is our pastor. We most energetically condemn this activity. We declare that we stand together with all the Bulgarian people behind our Fatherland Front government."

The newspaper attributed this statement to the Sofia Baptist churches: "The fatherland authority and (Communist) Premier Dimitrov's constitution gave us full religious freedom. We are disgusted and condemn the treacherous activity of our United Church's leaders and pastors."

The statement was published over the signatures of St. Enchev and P. Fortunov, president and secretary of Sofia Baptist churches. The expressions were published under the headline "Religious Organization and Groups Condemn Pastors-Spies and Traitors."

The 15 churchmen of the Baptist Congregational, Pentecost and Methodist churches, are charged with spying for the United States and Britain, treason and black market dealings in foreign currency.

The Sofia press has published purported confessions by Ziapkov, Ivanov and Georgi Chernev, head of the Pentecost churches, that they were spies. (In the West, general denials have been made that the churchmen engaged in spying or other improper activities. The indictment

Proposed Development of Africa Sends Brazilians Into Huddle of Concern

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Intensive development of African possessions projected by Britain and other European countries has sent Brazilian industrial and agricultural leaders into an emergency huddle in the market center of Sao Paulo.

This meeting is to devise means to counter what they regard as a tremendous threat to Brazil's foreign markets. The crisis was outlined for the conference by Mario Pentecost, an economic expert who is a member of the economy institute which is sponsoring the conference.

Pentecost draws a grim picture for Brazil. He insists that every crop vital to the country will be grown in Africa. He says that the European colonial nations threaten Brazil's world markets in coffee, cotton, textiles, vegetable oils, fruits and cocoa. Brazil not only will lose those European countries as customers, he declares, but she will have to battle them for survival in the European markets as well.

The economist emphasizes his point by citing previous instances in which the country lost through foreign development. He says the Amazon rubber region was "ruined" when Brazilian rubber was taken to the East Indies. And as the result of Brazilian cocoa being grown on the African gold coast, the latter area now yields 90 per cent of the world crop.

Those are some of the dire things which are said to threaten Brazil. But just what machinery is going to produce these developments?

Pentecost answers that, too, and dwells heavily on Britain's program. He says she plans to develop 17 of 35 colonial areas to grow food and cattle. The government will work hand in hand with private enterprise. English banks are making long term loans for the African development.

Pentecost points out that United States capital is being wooed with offers of free flow of profits. That is a true bill, as this column pointed out some time ago.

Britain took much encouragement from President Truman's announcement in his inaugural address of a "bold new program" to help the world's needy areas. He urged the United States and other nations with technical know-how to join in raising the living standards of the world's "free peoples." Guarantees—presumably government guarantees—to private investors who would do their part, were an important point in the great program he outlined.

Whether Britain will profit by private American investments in her colonial development remains to be seen. It is clear that she hopes to attract capital from the United States in carrying out a program which in effect is a rehabilitation of the British empire. With the vast Indian peninsula and Burma now independent, England is bent on repairing her fortunes by wholesale development of her African possessions. Most of all she is determined to capitalize this situation.

Small wonder that Brazil should be worried. And she isn't the only one, for many of her South American neighbors have noted the writing on the wall.

Pentecost proposes that Brazil counter with prompt moves. He maintains that Brazilian agriculture and industry must abandon old methods, following the same tactics for development as used by Britain and the United States.

The Sao Paulo conference continues through this week. Great things may hinge on its decisions.

Sweets Are Cause of Tooth Decay

Eating sweets is the major cause of tooth decay among children, according to dental research.

Therefore, parents and teachers are urged to attempt to cut down on children's use of candy, pop and chocolate, syrup drinks, cookies, cakes, pie, jam, jelly and sugar and gum—including the bubble variety.

Coldframe Is Big Help to Early Garden

A hotbed or coldframe is a wonderful aid to the homestead country home gardener. Home Demonstration Agent Lorraine Blackwood points out. The hotbed is perhaps most useful, but a coldframe is less expensive. Once the gardener has found the value of either, he would not be without it for anything, she explains.

The difference between a hotbed and coldframe is that a hotbed is artificially heated, while the coldframe receives only the heat from the sun and the warmth of the soil is protected by glass or some other transparent covering. Either can be of almost any size, depending upon the size or shape of glass you plan to use, she explains. The standard hotbed covering comes in a 3—by 6—foot sash. So if you construction Agent Lorraine Agent Lorraine Blackwood, has shown that tooth decay is started by acid resulting from action of bacteria on refined carbohydrates (sugar and starches) in the mouth.

"Brushing the teeth or washing the mouth immediately after eating sweets would help some," Mrs. Blackwood says, "but what child has eaten several delicious home made cookies?"

After intensive research, agents are being developed to counteract the harmful effects of sugar. Until these are in general use, however, parents can save their children's teeth by cutting down on the sweets each child is permitted to eat.

Research has definitely shown that dental decay will decrease in direct proportion to the extent it is cut from the diet. A well-balanced diet with a minimum of starches and sugars will lessen the activity of dental decay for the growing child, she states.

Founder of Hotel Chain Dies in Little Rock

founders of the Southwest Hotels, Inc., died at Arkansas Baptist hospital here early today. He was 86. He had been in ill health for the last three months.

A native of Savannah, Tenn., Seeman began his business career in northwest Arkansas in 1890 when he operated a small general merchandise store. Until his retirement from business life in 1943, Seeman operated a chain of about 27 retail stores and lumber yards in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

He also was a former vice-president of the First National bank at Fort Smith and partner in the Seeman-East Grocery Co., Greenville, Tex.

Such a frame is an aid in the production of an early garden. Lettuce, cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower plants may be started in the protected soil of the frames in winter. These can often be removed early enough to start tomato plants for early transplanting. Tomato plants may be started earlier in a flat or box, indoors. When the earlier vegetables are moved out, the tomato plants may be lined out in the frame at 3—inch spacing, or they may be set in individual pots or paper cups for ease of later transplanting to the garden.

In summer the frame can be used for the propagation of soft-wood cuttings or starting of plants for the fall garden, Mrs. Blackwood states.

COMPRESSION IS SECRET OF BIG INCH GAS TRANSMISSION

Natural gas is so light it is hard to realize that the power of 60 railroad locomotives, nearly 240,000 horsepower, is used to carry gas to its destination on the Big Inch pipe line system.

Yet it is this horsepower which makes the Big Inch bigger, without increasing the size of the pipe. The secret is that gas, unlike oil or solid fuels, can be compressed to a fraction of its normal size. By compression more gas can be put in the same space.

Gas is compressed to push it through lines

When Texas Eastern began to operate the Big Inch and the Little Big Inch pipe lines not quite two years ago, less than 140 million cubic feet of gas could be transported daily. There was no power to boost the gas along.

Now, with 21 big compressor stations, the lines can carry half a billion feet of natural gas daily.

How does a compressor station work? Well let's take a trip through one of the 14 new, electrically-powered stations developed by Texas Eastern. Let's look in particular at Station No. 10, near Lick Creek, Illinois.

Gas is scrubbed at compressor stations

Natural gas arrives from the preceding station at Oran, Missouri, with the pressure down to approximately 550 pounds. It goes first to the "scrubbers," tall metal towers where liquids and other impurities are removed.

Then the gas is piped through eight compressors, four on the Little Inch and four on the Big Inch. Each of the four boosts the pressure a little higher until, finally, the natural gas goes back into the main lines at about 750 pounds per square inch, ready for its next 50-mile lap.

New-type compressors used at Texas Eastern stations

The machines that do this job are new type centrifugal compressors never before used for long distance gas transmission. They are driven by electric motors ranging at different stations from 1,250 to 2,000 horsepower.

MEN BUILDING COMPRESSOR STATIONS

TEXAS Eastern pipeliners in less than two years have completed the remarkable engineering task of converting the Inch lines from wartime oil carriers to natural gas service. Men like the master mechanic above, who is installing a fuel injector system on a gas engine compressor, are now completing adjustments to make the Inch lines as efficient as possible for transportation of natural gas. Such men, who have rebuilt the Inch lines, are citizens of your community and similar communities along the Inch lines. Their job is to keep natural gas moving without interruption; their civic interests will be those of a neighbor and citizen in their community.

Men building schools laying roads planting crops

Now that the Inch lines are operated as natural gas carriers by a private company, they are helping the many public projects in the communities and states along the pipe line route. Thus, through Texas Eastern payrolls, its construction expenditures, and the taxes paid by the Company and its employees, it is participating in the building of schools, laying of roads, and the testing and planting of more and better crops.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegle.
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

In view of the fact that a jury endorsed his conduct in shooting a rioting goon of the C. I. O. Through the head and killing him, the experience of Fred Lee Robb, of Waterloo, Ia., a law-abiding laborer and himself a union man, should interest other citizens who are facing goon trouble. The C. I. O.'s organized mobs of goons, courteously known as pickets, have been the worst lynching force in our history with a record of terrorism incomparably blinder than that of the original Ku Klux Klan. And there is no union of the C. I. O. With a worse record than that of Philip Murray's own steel workers which, in its organizing days, went marring Chicago and Illinois and only recently revived its old practice of overturning the automobiles of good citizens on the way to work.

The principle, always inherent in law but long dormant, is now re-awakened by a law-abiding citizen may kill a picket if he is attacked and reasonably fears that he may be seriously injured and the police refuse to protect him. The picket never has any lawful excuse to shoot the law-abiding citizen.

Frank W. Edwards, of Waterloo, Ia., who defended Fred Lee Robb against charges of murder and slaughter and got him acquitted, has written some intimate facts of the case at my request.

Roberts, a Negro, about 50 years old, weight 150 pounds, father of three children, maintaining a home for some years, was a member of a record of 28 years of respectable reputation. As a member of the packing house workers of the C. I. O., he obeyed a call to strike but finally returned to work to feed his family. Two other Negro strikers threatened to beat his head off with a club.

"The pickets had a loud speaker," Mr. Edwards writes, "and over the speaker they called those who were working on the line, yellow-bellied rats and skunks. Roberts went quietly about his business. His car was parked on the company lot and he found the air let out of his tires. The loud speaker taunted him and he had to walk several blocks to get the tires inflated. They loosened the bolts on a wheel of his 1931 Ford and when he got about two miles out he thought he had a flat but found the wheel nearly off. It might have wrecked his car and injured him. Pickets approached him as he was leaving the plant and told him 'this is your last warning.' The next day he put an arm 45 on the floor between the two front seats.

On the 19th of May, 1948, some men had come down from another state and told the local union they were conducting this strike like a Sunday school party and must get rough. There was liquor, beer, and all day there was rioting. The assistant chief of police had been trampled and the police had abandoned efforts to get anyone in or out of the plant. All this was known to Roberts. He lives 20 miles away. He found the lower gate barricaded and the crowd hostile. He went to the upper gate where he was usually hostile but the crowd was unusually hostile but he was not. He noticed that the gate was locked. A crowd gathered his entrance and no police near. The mob surrounded his car and began to rock it. They lifted it up and let it drop and shouted: 'tip the guy over!' 'kill him!' 'kill the black!' 'kill the job!'

"Fearing that they meant to tip over his car and kill him he brandished the pistol. The mob receded but when he put it down and started away they surrounded him again and said 'tip him over!' 'kill him!'

Mr. Edwards here elaborated a claim that Roberts did not shoot to kill, although he based his defense on a claim that a man attacked has a right to use adequate means to defend himself.

Roberts fired and the mob scattered and he got away. "A policeman jumped on the running board and told him to get away quick," Mr. Edwards continued. "When he had gone a block and a half they got him in a police car and took his gun and took him to the police station. When all this rocking his car and threats to kill him were going on not a single policeman came to his rescue although ten or a dozen were within 100 feet. The evidence showed the deceased, (a picket named Chuck Farrell) was getting into the car by the right front door when the shot was fired.

Weights for the six-furlong test will be announced tomorrow after the 12 noon starting time. The 283-year-olds named for the Hot Springs Handicap, first of four 100-yard features this season at Oaklawn Park.

Hot Springs, Feb. 23 — (P)—Some of the older sprinters at Oaklawn park had their first outing of the season today in a six-furlong allowance race with feature rating.

Best known to Oaklawn fans is the field of 12 was Golden Horn seven-year-old horse owned by Harry Stuts of Hot Springs, and a winner here last year.

The Stuts racer was assigned impost of 12 pounds less than Fob Bound, an invader from Agate, Caliente, owned by Mrs. R. C. Hodge of Los Angeles.

A real threat to this pair was expected to be Mrs. J. Blackwell's Miss Ethel, a yearling mare which raced well in Ohio last year. She was asked to carry only 102 pounds.

Another probable factor in the race seemed to be Henry Forrest's Skittler, a gelding with a creditable record.

A 20-to-1 shot, Tillerette captured the featured George Washington allowance purse yesterday. Tillerette, a five-year-old mare, paid $45.70 for a $2 mutuels ticket.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

For HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Feb. 23 — (P)—Jim Braddock, whom some old-timers will recall as the heavyweight champ before Joe Louis took over a dozen years ago, doesn't hesitate to tell Joe as the greatest of them all. "I didn't stand a chance against him," Jim admits. "And he has defended his title more times than all the champions put together since John J. Sullivan." Ted Atkinson, Coalton's jockey, has no doubts about his star's ability to go a mile and a quarter in Saturday's Widener handicap. "I think he can run from here to the Rocky Mountains," he says firmly.

Orders Aplenty.
Although the ticket sale for the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame football game at Dallas next Dec. 3 will not start for six months, S. M. U. authorities say they already are receiving several hundred orders a day and that they probably could sell 200,000 tickets if they had the seats to go with them. The National League champion Boston Braves are having trouble, partly because they won the flag and partly because they snuffed out a reputed $75,000 bonus to sign Johnny Antonelli, and untested schoolboy pitcher. It is a natural for the other lads to want in on the gravy.

Backag's Neck Out.
Diego from Mexico where he caught a sickness, Joe DiMaggio picks the Yankees to win the pennant and indulges in a crack he is likely to hear from later on, as follows: "Some of those Cleveland fellows should begin to get that rage about July. Joe is out of the rookie class, himself."

Chicago, Feb. 23 — (P)—Survivors of 240 preliminary bouts battle tonight in the quarter-final engagements in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions in the Chicago stadium.

The winners will have proved to be the best of 312 aspiring glove swinging amateurs who Monday night opened their drive for places on the final program. The champions will be crowned on March 4 and the team selected to represent Chicago in the intercity matches with New York in Madison Square Garden March 28.

The huskier punchers, lads in the 140-pound, 160, 175 and heavyweight divisions, thrilled a crowd of 8,845 last night with stirring battles fought in three rings.

Standout winners were Herschel Acton, Oklahoma City, and Chicago's Dick Guerrero, two 1948 champions, both battling in the 147 pound class. Each scored double victories. Acton, 1948 light-heavyweight titleholder, was Guerrero's welterweight this year. He started his guest by defeating Henry Webb of Cincinnati, and Jimmy White of Milwaukee.

Guerrero, the only defending champion registered three round victories over Ben Barnes, Kansas City Indian, and Andy Anderson of Indianapolis.

In the principal heavyweight bouts, Bill Bangert, National AAU double champion, scored a 241-round victory over Ben Barnes, Kansas City Indian, and Andy Anderson of Indianapolis.

Magnolia Wins Pair, Two Games Here Tonight

Last night at the high school Hope lost a double header to Magnolia and two games are on the menu Wednesday night at the school.

The Bobcats had an off night and Magnolia's Panthers edged them 27 to 26 while the Columbia County "B" boys got past Hope 36 to 28. Hockett and McCargo were high for the Bobcats with 7 each.

At 7 o'clock tonight the Stewart's Jewels girls entertain Okay and the school is prepared to pay him the highest salary in professional basketball—if necessary—to sign him to a contract next season.

Dixie Moore, commissioner of the pro group, came here to talk with the six-foot-eight All-American center who will graduate this spring. Moore said he also sounded out Eddie Hickey, St. Louis University basketball coach, on whether he is interested in a National League coaching job. Hickey told him Moore said that "he is very happy in St. Louis and has a contract here, but that as you get older, that money looks awfully good."

Moore said Macauley promised not to sign a pro contract without first consulting the National League.

"There are several clubs in our league that are willing to go all out to get Macauley," Moore said. "We want him in the National League. If there is competition and bidding starts, we're prepared to pay him the highest salary in professional basketball."

The National League commissioner commented that the Billiken star will get a good position to command a fat salary for a pro contract. It is generally conceded the St. Louis bombers of the rival basketball association of America will make a strong bid for his services.

BANK GROUP ELECTS
Fayetteville, Feb. 22 — (P)—Means Wilkinson, vice president of the Farmers Bank at Greenwood, today was elected chairman of a group of Arkansas Bankers Association. Other officers: J. L. Stoddard, Springfield, vice chairman, and W. W. Holbrook of Mansfield, secretary-treasurer.

Washington, Feb. 22 — (P)—Use of the draft law to boost the national guard and army reserve branches to over 1,000,000 men for "security" reasons has been urged by a civilian-military study committee.

The committee, headed by former secretary of state and supreme court justice James F. Byrnes, said last night the cost would be large but "we cannot afford a cheaper program."

"Our full strength must be maintained to preserve the peace of the world," the committee, named by President Truman, said in urging the expansion.

The group proposed an army national guard of 475,000 and an organized reserve corps of 575,000, or a total of 1,050,000, with the selective service law providing the desired strength, if necessary.

The group suggested that the states retain control of national guard units as at present.

The national guard now has about 287,000 men, far less than the 375,000 it had last June when volunteers flooded recruiting offices and the army was forced to pay for more soldiers. The draft law, consequently, is still on the books but is not being used.

What Form to Use in Filing Income Tax

(EDITOR'S NOTE: THIS IS THE SECOND OF 12 STORIES ON THE MUST DO WHAT ABOUT THE 1949 INCOME TAX RETURN. FOR THE DEADLINE IS MARCH 15.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 22 —(UP)— This answers the question: What form do I use in making my 1949 income tax return?

The three forms: 1040A; the 1040 short-form; and the 1040 long-form. The dividing line is an income of $5,000 or more.

If your income was $5,000 or more, you have no choice. You must use the 1040 long-form and figure your own tax. You can't use the others.

But those with under - $5,000 income can use Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form or, if they wish, the 1040 long-form.

What form the under - $5,000 people use depends upon the kind of income they had and what deductions they claim. Those who claim big deductions will use the 1040 long-form.

Both Form 1040A and the 1040 short-form are easy to handle.

Form 1040A— Send to the tax collector. He'll figure your tax for you, send you any refund due, or tell you if you owe any tax.

The 1040 short-form— No figuring. Answer questions. Find your own tax in the table on the back. That table gives the tax on income up to $5,000.

(Form 1040 is really one form of four pages. It's called the long-form when you figure your own tax, the short-form when you use the table.)

But when do you use Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form? You can use Form 1040A when:

1. All your under-$5,000 income was from wages or salary from which full tax was withheld during the year, or—

2. When any other income, not already taxed, amounted to no more than $100 and came from (1) wages, (2) dividends, or (3) interest.

If your under - $5,000 income doesn't fit that bill, then you can use the 1040 short-form (or the long-form). For example:

You had income of $101 from (1) wages, (2) dividends, or (3) interest. You'd use the 1040 short-form. (Or long-form).

You had income, no matter how small, from rent, or business, or farming, or anything else not listed in (1), (2), or (3) above. You'd use the 1040 short-form. (Or long-form).

Then there's the problem of deductions—

The under-$5,000 people who use Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form are allowed about a 10 per cent deduction from their income for things like hospital expenses, charitable contributions, and so on.

They get that 10 per cent deduction automatically, and, without having to itemize any deductions at all. They don't have to claim the 10 per cent. They get it, without asking.

When they use Form 1040A, the collector who figures the tax for them takes out a 10 per cent deduction for them. He uses a tax table.

And when they use the 1040 short-form, the 10 per cent deduction already is allowed for in the tax table they use to find their own tax.

But what of the people who want to use Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form and find their deductions really amount to more than 10 per cent?

They should use the 1040 long-form. There they can claim whatever their deductions are. But they'll have to prove them by itemizing them.

Husbands and wives can use Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form to file a joint return and, by splitting their income under the new law, save money, provided—

Their combined income is under $5,000 and that income fits the rules for using Form 1040A or the 1040 short-form.

If their individual incomes are each under $5,000 but, combined, are $5,000 or more, they can file jointly on the 1040 long-form and save money by splitting their income.

(Note: The old Form W-2 — the receipt given by employers for taxes withheld from pay — used to serve as an income tax return. But no more. Form 1040A has now taken its place.)

Oil Firms Are Named in Anti Trust Suit

Austin, Tex., Feb. 21 — (UP) — Attorney General Price Daniel today filed an anti-trust suit against 10 major oil refiners and marketers, alleging they combined forces to "increase, fix and maintain" uniform prices on gasoline.

The defendants, all of whom were charged with fixing and maintaining uniform tank wagon prices on gasoline in Texas, were:

Arkansas fuel oil company, Cities Service Oil company, Continental Oil company, Fugl Oil corporation, Humble Oil and Refining company, Magnolia Petroleum company, Standard Oil Company of Texas, The Texas company, Sinclair Refining company and the Phillips Petroleum company.

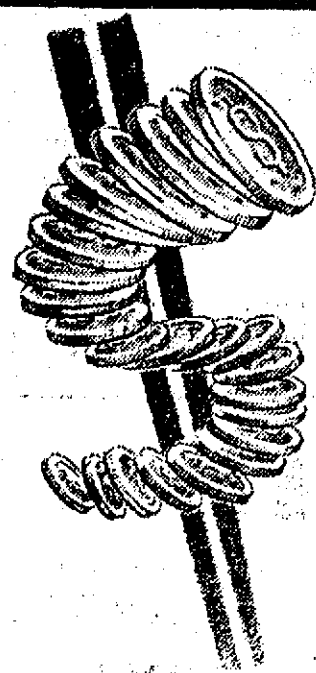

Daniel's petition alleged that eight of the defendants combined efforts, after the Phillips company increased the price of crude oil last Sept. 28, to "keep crude prices down for the purpose of maintaining... abnormally large profits."

These, it said, existed "as a result of the wide spread between crude oil prices and the selling price of refined gasoline."

All but Phillips and Sinclair, both of whom posted a 35 per cent barrel increase and crude prices in September, were charged with collusion in preventing a general increase in Texas crude prices.

Indian Exiles

After being exiled from Mexico, the Yaaqui Indians took refuge in Arizona. They now stage their own Passion Play each Easter in their adobe villages of Pascua and Guadalupe, Ariz.
